

Celebration Day Activities

Unsung MOOlodies

Individuals or classrooms compete against each other to create the best song, jingle or rap related to milk. Invite a panel of “celebrity” judges to determine the best entry. The winners could perform their MOOlody for the school.

Milk Carton Bowling

Take empty 1 or 2 L milk cartons and fill the bottom with a little sand or material to weigh them down. Seal them. Set up a bowling alley and hold a tournament to determine the best team of bovine bowlers!

Milk Carton Treasure Hunt

Hide empty milk cartons with a number on the bottom around your school. The number on the bottom of the carton correspond with a prize in the office. At lunch students are given a set amount of time to find the hidden cartons.

Milk Carnival

Setup a mini carnival for the day. Admission to the carnival is free to everyone dressed in black and white. Different groups in your school would be responsible to setup a booth where prizes can be won. Ideas include:

- Guess the number of marbles or candies in a 4 L milk jug.
- Milk trivia wheel.
- Make an udderly MOOvellous hat (hats should depict something about cows, dairy farming or milk).
- Milk carton blackout (fill the bottom with a little sand, seal them, and use bean bags to knock them over).
- Toss a ball or bean bag into empty milk cartons.

Pin the Bell on the Cow

Students compete to see who comes closest to pinning the bell on the cow’s neck. The student who is the closest wins!

Professor Cow Contest

Each class is in competition against all the other classes to dress their teacher up as the best cow. Once the teachers are dressed, they are paraded past the judges and student body to determine the best dressed cow!

How Big is the Herd?

Have students count how many pictures of cows are hidden within the school. Hold a draw amongst all students with the right answer.

inCOWgnito

Each student receives a picture of a cow. They have to design a costume for the cow so it would not be recognizable at a masquerade ball.

sCOWvenger Hunt

Hide cards with a milk carton design and a scrambled word on each throughout the school. Students must find all the cards and unscramble the words, which spell out an important milk message. Students with the correct responses can be entered into a prize draw.
